BAPTIST UNION LIBRARY

Members of the Society are advised to note that under an arrangement which has been worked out in conjunction with the Baptist Union, the Society and Regent's Park College, the whole of the Baptist Union Library is to go to Oxford, to be integrated with the Angus Collection. This will strengthen the Oxford Baptist Collection considerably. Part of the stock has already been moved; and more is to follow within the next twelve months. Miss Frances Williams, formerly of Serampore, India, and more recently of the Selly Oak Colleges, is a retired Librarian who has kindly offered her services to Regent's Park College to supervise this project. The Baptist Union has arranged for substantial financial help towards the cost of this. But it will still be necessary for Regent's Park College to find considerable sums of money to house the Library and make it available for researchers. The idea for the move originated in the necessity to find a new home for it in the event of the Baptist Church House redevelopment. Members of this Society who know of trust funds which might help with this very large project, should contact the Principal of the College with details.

NORTHERN COLLEGE RECORDS

Another part of our Baptist heritage is that which stems from the merging of the Rawdon and Manchester Baptist Colleges, to form the Northern Baptist College. In 1977 it was decided to lodge the historical materials of the combined institution in the John Rylands Library in Manchester. Anybody wishing to consult materials should first contact Dr Brian Haymes, at Northern, who will advise on how to consult the Rylands Library.
